Andrew Inglis Managing Director of Creative Training Techniques

Andrew has personally trained and coached more than 3,000 professional communicators within Australasia and internationally over the past 12 years through the internationally acclaimed Creative Training Techniques Seminar, High Impact Presentation Workshop and individual coaching sessions.

His experience as a learning and development professional combined with an academic background in Sociology, post graduate studies in Acting and more than ten years as a professional actor, enables Andrew to bring unique qualities to the process of helping others to communicate more dynamically and effectively.

Andrew's approach is based on the core principle that the presenter must have strong clarity and focus on the specific messages they want to transfer and why their listeners need them. He believes that all other variables tend to work effectively once aligned with clear, specific outcomes for the audience.
